Kütahya Kossuth's House Museum

Hungarian Lajos Kossuth in Kütahya

Lajos Kossuth (1802-1894), one of the leaders of the Hungarian liberation war was hosted in this house between 1850 and 1851 along with his family and he drafted the constitution of Hungary here.

In the first half of the 19th century, creating an independent national bourgeois state in Hungary was planned under the leadership of Lajos Kossuth. On March 15, 1848, the revolution broke out in Pest, but Austria signed a military alliance with the Russian Czar and defeated the Hungarian liberation war. As a result, Lajos Kossuth left the country on August 17, 1849 and settled in Vidin with the refugees. Austria and Russia demanded the return of the refugees, but the Ottoman State did not accept this demand and sent the refugees from Vidin to Shumen and finally from Bursa to Kütahya in 1850. Lajos Kossuth was later placed in this 18th century house, where he drafted the Hungarian constitution. Kossuth left Ottoman soil on August 22, 1851 and first went to England and then to America, and finally to Torino in Italy and continued his struggle on Hungary's independence until his last breath on March 20, 1894.
