The Akhisar Museum has one storey and consists of three main sections, namely archaeological artefacts sections, Ethnography Section and Arasta. The Akhisar Museum is waiting for visitors with its artefacts, majority of which have been discovered from Akhisar and its surroundings.

The male relief with a bird in its hand, found in the village of Gokceler, Akhisar, thought to be part of the door of a burial chamber, dated to the 5th century B.C., is one of the most notable artefacts of the Akhisar Museum.
