Italians Had Really Loved
Amasra

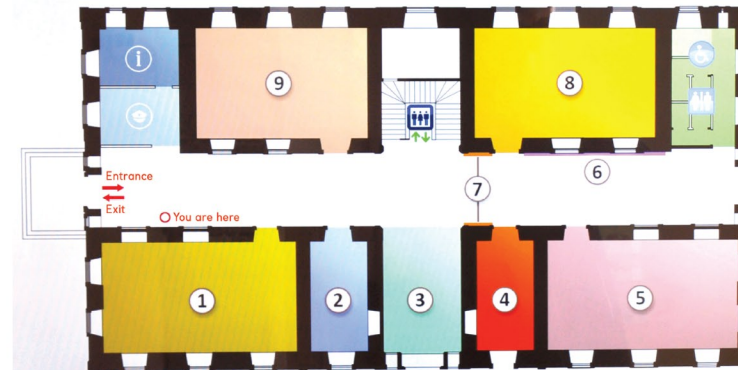

The construction of the school of the marine was initiated in 1884 by Ismail Kemal Beg, the governor of Bolu, but was left unfinished. In 1976, a restoration began in the building and it was completed in 1982. Most of the artefacts and works exhibited in the museum building pertain to Amasra and its surrounding region, ranging from the Hellenistic to Roman periods as well as to Byzantine, Genoese, and Ottoman eras.
